Argentine Faces Army Rebellion

General Defies War Secretary

Buenos Aires (AP) — A general challenged authorities of the military command today, joining an Argentine still struggling to recover from unsettling effects of the coup that ousted President Arturo Frondizi four months ago.

Maj.-Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero established himself in Jujuy, a garrison town in northern Argentina near the Bolivian border, and proclaimed himself army commander-in-chief in defiance of War Secretary Gen. Juan Bautista Loza, who has been dismissed as the army's chief.

Toranzo has been commander of Argentina's 4th Army. Loza reportedly by ordering him out of his 4th Army command and proclaiming him in open rebellion.

SWIFT MEASURES
The secretary told the nation, alarmed by this new military feud, that Toranzo's surprise manoeuvre was only an isolated incident and "measures have been swiftly adopted to re-establish normality."

The rebellious general is the brother of Gen. Carlo Toranzo Montero, who rebelled against the former regime of President Arturo Frondizi in June 1960.

The affair at this stage appeared to be a dispute within army ranks and not a move against President Jose Maria Guido's government. But it could provoke a new administrative crisis. Reports of army unrest have been circulating in Buenos Aires for several days.

'Stop Handouts' Premiers Urge

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Canadian premiers want to stop handouts to people who can work but haven't got a job.

They want a new federal provincial formula for welfare payments.

They want to put their unemployed to work "at going rates" of pay on useful projects such as roads, parks and public buildings.

This emerged as the major topic of discussion at the final

70-Year-Old Woman Pilot Flies Atlantic

SHANNON, IRELAND (AP) — Mrs. Marion Hart, a 70-year-old New York grandmother, emerged from a long sleep at Shannon Airport today and said flying the Atlantic is fun.

She needed the sleep after flying a tiny Bonanza aircraft across the Atlantic in 11 hours. Her navigator was a former nurse and wartime navigation instructor, Louise Sacchi, 49, of Jenkinstown, Pa.

Mrs. Hart said:

"As far as we were concerned it was a nice uneventful trip, but the air traffic authorities at Gander got excited for a time when they thought we were lost."

"We were just out of radio contact. They called Shannon, who had asked a jet which was in the area to contact us and everything was all right again."

WANTED TO TOUR

Mrs. Hart said she made the trip just to have a look around Ireland, Britain and the Continent. She said hers would probably be the last crossing of the Atlantic in a single-engined plane.

RETAIN DIGNITY

"These people can get assistance and hold their dignity, too."

New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud said the welfare recipients could work on roads and parks for governments.

"We would make the same payment as now—but people would have to work for it," said Mrs. Lesage.

The conference broke up on a note as amicable as its start.

"We have been practical about all these items," said Mrs. Lesage pointing to the 17-point agenda discussed over the past two days.

"There were no regional or political differences on any of the problems," said Mr. Bennett. "There were no partisan points of view expressed at any time—and we represented four different parties."

session here Tuesday of the third annual provincial premiers' conference.

The eight premiers and two cabinet ministers representing Canada's 10 provinces were most outspoken on this issue at a press conference following their afternoon windup.

The problem, said Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin:

"It is undesirable to hand out money to employable unemployed. It is much better that a reasonable occupation be found for them."

ALL AGREE

The reaction, summed up by Quebec Premier Jean Lesage: "Every premier was thinking the same thing."

The solution, if there is one, lies in the report of the conference to be made by A. S. Abell, director of federal-provincial relations in the Ottawa finance department, acting as observer at the Victoria sessions.

The federal representative told me his government is troubled by the same problem," said conference chairman Lesage.

"He will mention it to the federal government."

The bar to the work-for-welfare plan, said Premier Bennett of B.C., is that Ottawa won't allow its welfare aid to be used in this manner at present.

The 50-50 sharing of welfare costs is strictly on a handout basis.

"What we want," said Mr. Bennett, who has raised this subject before in the provincial legislature, "is some formula where the employable part of the group can work out social assistance at the going rates of pay."

Fulton to Get Finance Job?

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today conferred privately with Justice Minister Davie Fulton prior to the last meeting of the present cabinet.

Changes in the cabinet—including the filling of portfolios left vacant by the defeat of five ministers in the June 18 federal election—are to be announced at noon Thursday by the prime minister.

His meeting with Mr. Fulton immediately led to renewed speculation about the cabinet future of the justice minister.

It has been rumored here that Mr. Fulton is likely to get a new post, possibly switching jobs with Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Today's cabinet meeting, held at the prime minister's residence where Mr. Diefenbaker is recuperating from a fractured ankle bone, was attended by all but five of the 18-member cabinet.

Mr. Fulton met alone with the prime minister for 20 minutes before other members began to arrive for the meeting.

U.S. Exerts New Pressure For Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. State Secretary Rusk called in Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin today to put new pressure behind United States efforts to reach agreement on a pact to outlaw atomic testing.

Rusk and Dobrynin huddled for 1½ hours in Rusk's office while the U.S. official explained new U.S. test-ban proposals, aides said.

Rusk's meeting with the Soviet envoy, his first since returning from Geneva last month, was described as another effort to get across to the Russians what the United States considers an important proposal.

FLEMING ABSENT

Mr. Fleming did not attend. He is on an out-of-town engagement.

Among other cabinet members rumored to be headed for new jobs are Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough and Revenue Minister George Nowlan.

Conservative MPs considered as potential candidates for the vacant cabinet posts are Richard Bell Carleton, the finance minister's parliamentary secretary; Paul Martinneau Pontiac-Temiscaming, deputy speaker in the last parliament; and James McGrath St. John's East.

The five empty cabinet posts are: Postmaster general, solicitor general; public works, mines and technical surveys, and state secretary.

The prime minister told reporters after a morning cabinet meeting at his residence that he will probably meet Prime Ministers Menzies of Australia and Holyoake of New Zealand in London before the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference which he said is still scheduled to convene Sept. 10.

Mr. Diefenbaker, convalescing from an ankle injury, received reporters in his bedroom where the cabinet had met for 3½ hours.

The prime minister told them that he had received no official report of this week's conference of premiers in Victoria but that their recommendations would "receive the most careful consideration because their views are always most helpful."

Interests Protected' In ECM Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated today he is satisfied British negotiations with the European Common Market are proceeding with assurances that Commonwealth export interests are being respected.

He told reporters after a morning cabinet meeting at his residence that he will probably meet Prime Ministers Menzies of Australia and Holyoake of New Zealand in London before the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference which he said is still scheduled to convene Sept. 10.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Every once in a while some innocent young reporter writes that battles in the B.C. House are of "unprecedented vigor" or of a violence "unequalled in the annals of Commonwealth parliaments."

But get a load of this recent exchange from the Parliament of Jamaica:

Sir A. Bustamante (to Mr. Manley): You are like a peacock without feathers.

Mr. Manley: If I may paraphrase the Bible—the chatter of fools.

Sir A. Bustamante: Bible? Bible? He doesn't believe in God.

Mr. Manley: If the Member is drunk, he had better get out of the House.

Sir A. Bustamante: Dirty, stinking cad.

Mr. Manley: Offensive, insolent person.

Sir A. Bustamante: You say God is a myth.

Mr. Clarke: You are common. You are rude.

Sir A. Bustamante: I am not what you are, dirty and stink. You smell like an owl. Frowzy! . . .

Rev. Cyril Morgan: Remember you are a knight.

Sir A. Bustamante: You are a parson.

Mr. Newland: You are all a lot of blasted idol-worshippers.

You believe that Manley is a god here? You believe he is any blasted Caesar?

Mr. Clarke: The most common display I have ever seen.

Joe Zanichelli, popular maître d' at the Empress Hotel, had difficulty maintaining his poise and dignity Monday evening when two couples were more than half an hour late for a dinner party arranged by Premier Bennett to honor visiting premiers here for a two-day conference.

The dinner was planned for 7 p.m. But Ontario and Manitoba premiers and their wives must have misunderstood. They sauntered into the private dining room at 7:35.

"It's hard to keep food that long past serving time," Joe said.

Minutes later he mustered a smile as he ushered the late-comers into the room.

A visitor to HMNZS Royalist, visiting Victoria in the course of a goodwill cruise, received a gentle reminder that the tie between New Zealand and England remains strong. "I see," said the guest, studying the battle honors on the ship's crest, "that there was a Royal Navy ship of the same name."

"This is a Royal Navy ship," an officer said quietly.

A man from Tennessee rode on the model railway at Mattick's Farm Tuesday, then said to its owner-driver, Sam Sutner.

"Lucky you're not doing this in the United States. The unions would insist on a full locomotive crew of driver, fireman and trainman."

Mr. Sutner managed by himself. He brought his model out from Calgary, and with it a model of a Burrell steam tractor. The tractor is only two feet long but, according to Mr. Sutner, it can pull a full-size automobile—slowly, of course.

A museum of miniature locomotives is to be held near the railway soon.

A WIDE-EYED and eager Jacqueline Kennedy was snapped in this close-up shot just before she and mother Jacqueline left New York for the start of their overnight flight to Rome. The president's wife and daughter are spending a private holiday on the Amalfi coast. On their arrival today it was reported that Jacqueline was having a little difficulty adjusting to Italian time which is several hours ahead of New York.

Power Resources Provincial Affair

Canadian premiers are emphatic that control of power resources shall remain in provincial hands.

But at the same time, they will welcome any offer of federal assistance in developing power projects.

These views emerged Tuesday after discussion of a national power grid at the conference of provincial premiers here.

The eight premiers would not make comments about such as export or how best to develop resources—at a post-conference press interview.

"Each province would have to make its own representations to the federal government," said Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin.

He said the premiers exchanged views on how best to use resources with the idea of a national grid in mind. But no common approach was announced.

"It was a unanimous opinion that whatever happens installations in each province should be the responsibility of each province," said Quebec Premier Jean Lesage.

"That's right—ownership and management," said Premier Bennett of B.C.

"We haven't disagreed on anything," he added.

Nobody would offer any comment on B.C.'s power plans.

ence atmosphere was a marked improvement over last year's meeting. It had proved a most useful exchange of information on provincial business.

The delegates Tuesday discussed the possibility of uniform automobile insurance coverage.

No conclusions were reached, but the idea would be to work toward a standard rate of insurance coverage for all provinces with reciprocal agreements for coverage of persons involved in accidents with uninsured drivers.

During the two days of talks, the premiers discussed a wide range of topics, although financial matters received most attention.

Today they are B.C.'s guests on a joyride to Kelowna, Premier Bennett's hometown.

They had a ferry trip aboard City of Vancouver this morning, and flew to Kelowna from Vancouver aboard a chartered airliner.

The city of Kelowna threw a luncheon at which Newfoundland Premier Joey Smallwood was scheduled to make a speech.

Then the premiers saw the opening parade and events of the annual Kelowna regatta. Tonight the city was again to be host at a buffet dinner. They were to fly home Thursday.

Advisory Group For Economy To Be Studied

The province of Manitoba has agreed to make an inquiry into the feasibility of a national economic advisory council for Canada.

Premier Duff Roblin will compile a memorandum for the premiers of the other provinces.

He undertook the task at the conference of provincial premiers which would wrap up talks here Tuesday afternoon.

Conference chairman Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec said Mr. Roblin would investigate the possible scope and membership of an economic council.

"It will be very complicated," said Mr. Lesage.

"This is just the first exploration of the idea. There is no conclusion yet."

"We will continue to study it in the light of Mr. Roblin's memo."

Priority Needs of Provinces Must Be Recognized—Lesage

The federal system of government must be "thought out again" to recognize priority needs of the provinces and fulfill the meaning of confederation, Quebec Premier Jean Lesage said here Tuesday night.

Mr. Lesage gave a windup speech to Canada's premiers at a dinner in the Empress Hotel. The premiers' conference sessions ended earlier in the afternoon.

Mr. Lesage called for "rapportchon" (a harmonious relationship) rather than uniformity for Quebec and the other provinces.

He said Quebecers are uneasy about their survival on the road the federal system is currently following.

MACHINERY MISUSED

"For reasons of administrative convenience or because of cases of emergency such as the war—reasons which were possibly legitimate at the time they were put forward—the federal machinery has often been misused in the course of our history," said Mr. Lesage.

"In fact at one time or another the central government has assumed numerous responsibilities which constitutionally belonged to the provinces."

Mr. Lesage told the seven premiers and two cabinet delegates that it is not possible to return to the letter of the act of confederation because of changing economic and social conditions.

"What must be re-examined is more the present use that

The Iron Paradox

THE CANADIAN IMPERIAL Bank of Commerce, which has no political axes to grind, thus cuts to the bone of the Canadian crisis:

"If the present (austerity) moves turn out to be inadequate, further measures obviously will have to be adopted. It may be that import quotas will yet be necessary to balance our international accounts, and that increased taxes will be required to balance the budget. Neither prospect presents any adequate long-range solution. Import quotas are open to possibilities of higher costs while increased taxes, especially with a tax structure that has grown haphazardly and without design, will pose still greater deterrents to initiative and enterprise."

Thus the present or any alternative Canadian government is caught in an iron paradox.

It must begin at least to balance the national budget if foreign and Canadian confidence in our finances, in our resources and in our intentions is to be restored. But economies on the one hand and taxes on the other, if they are not applied in exactly the right places, may discourage the economic growth which alone can cure the crisis in the end.

The paradox does not end there. If the government continues to restrict imports by its present so-called "temporary" tariffs or if, worse, it applies permanent import quotas to reduce our trade deficit, then it will surely invite and may well provoke foreign retaliation. Then we would be worse off than ever.

It is fair and factual to blame the Diefenbaker government for the lost week end of five years in which the present crisis was allowed to grow and was deliberately disguised until it could be disguised no longer. The government cannot fairly be blamed if it does not have an immediate answer to the crisis of its own creation.

The problem ahead of the nation now is complex enough to baffle any government, most of all a government that obviously failed to understand the problem from the day it came to office until the day it retreated in panic to austerity.

One thing is perfectly clear, however, as the Canadian Imperial

'Not Enough Evidence'

THE SEVENTY SONS OF FREE-

DOM leaders who have been freed of charges of conspiracy to intimidate Parliament have been shown the justice of Canadian law. Public indignation over bombings and incendiarism, a general feeling that "we've had enough of this," a widespread belief that mass imprisonment of the leaders would largely terminate the lawlessness in the Kootenays—all these had no effect in court.

The magistrate reviewed the evidence offered and found it insufficient to merit submission to a higher court. This is a respect for legality and justice which the Sons of Freedom have not themselves exhibited. Even while the process of law was carried out, more than 200 Doukhobor homes were burned,

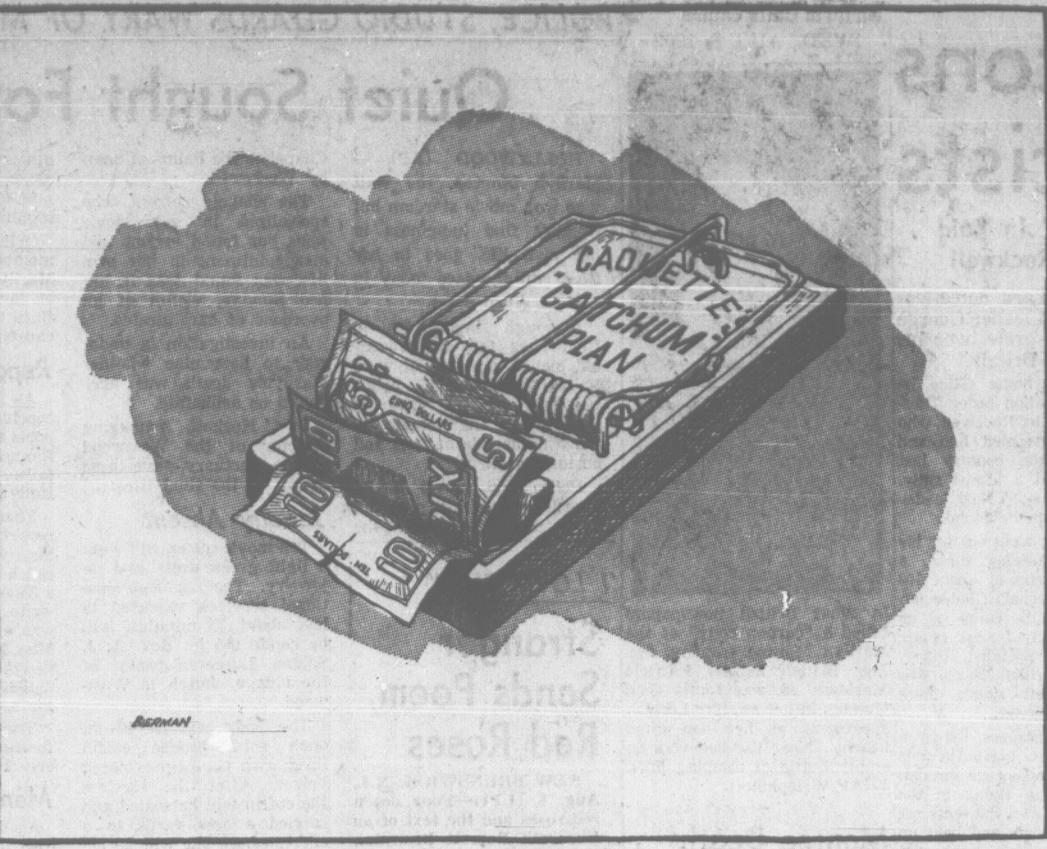

Keep the Future In Mind

WHETHER OR NOT BLANSHARD Street is to be extended as a major exit route from the city—and it appears that provincial government opposition may kill the proposal—it is essential that the rehabilitation program for the Kings Road-Blanshard area should not be lost sight of in the controversy.

This is a rehousing scheme, to be financed largely by federal funds, and is one of several recommended by the Capital Region Planning Board and approved in principle by the city. The Blanshard Street extension as a through-route had been incorporated into this rehabilitation plan which calls for removal of inadequate housing in the area and replacement by apartment blocks and boulevards with eventual relocation of North Ward School.

The dual plan—rehabilitation and extension—had been offered by the planning experts, but the dwelling project is not dependent on creation of Blanshard as a major artery with provincial assistance.

There is something to be said for the argument, however, that if present conditions preclude the arterial plan, provision should be made for a secondary-class Blanshard Street extension that will permit possible conversion to major status in the future. Population predictions for Greater Victoria indicate that whether or not other main thoroughfares are constructed involving Quadra or Cook or other streets, the Government-Douglas route may eventually need a safety valve that could best be provided by Blanshard Street.

MIDSUMMER MADNESS

With an Over-Supply of the Long Green

IT'S been a badly mixed-up campaign this summer and it's very difficult to tell at this point who is going to come out ahead. In fact, at the present rate, you won't be able to see my head or anybody else's—the lawn grass will be too high. The plans just seemed to go awry, somehow. It's hard to beat bad luck and the weather too.

It all goes back to Tobin, the Master Plan for Outwitting Lawns. This plan had been carried out over several years with considerable success, and this year looked like another walk-over—lawn-wise, that is.

Normally, with half the front lawn on a slope, the grass dries out by mid-summer, leaving a nice expanse of golden covering that doesn't grow any more for the duration. This situation has been aided in later years by the steady encroachment of moss into the lawn, until it is difficult to tell whether it's a grass plot with moss, or a moss plot with grass.

The lower half of the lawn, being on the level, is a little harder to cope with. It persists in staying green and growing. Overhanging trees, of course, help to restrain the growth around the edges, but there is a nasty concentration of luxuriance at the centre which is a constant problem.

I have, of course, had occasional resort to a lawnmower. But this provides only a temporary respite. Relentlessly, the grass grows again. Then, too, I have had the services of an apprentice grassman, intermittently and not without considerable exhortation. But apprentice grassmen have a habit of going off to camps in the summer—and this is the very season when grass gets in some of its most deadly growth.

So there I was, the problem only partially solved, when I sought a reprieve, or a stay of execution, you might say, by going off on vacation myself.

The grass, unfortunately, does not go on vacation. In fact, this year, for several weeks, it had seemed inordinately persistent and assiduous.

I returned two weeks later to find a shambles. The grass had attained a greenness never seen before between April and October, and it had also attained a height—that well, those astronauts had better not let their feet drag as they go overhead.

In discovering the cause of this unseemly display of grassiness I also uncovered the reason for the lawn activity noticed earlier. There was a leak in the water main at the roadside adjacent to the lawn. For a month at least water had been flowing from the pipe and distributing itself throughout the soil under the lawn, encouraging it to undreamed heights of growth and depths of pigmentation. The dikes had broken, and even the apprentice's thumb could be of no avail.

It took another couple of weeks to get the leak fixed and the subterranean

Niagara stopped. It was at this point that the lawnmower, which had been deteriorating for eight years, became entirely unmanageable and had to be taken to the repairman.

The mower itself presents problems. It is an excellent, wide, heavy model of fairly advanced age. The trouble is that it carries with it a psychological block.

Having been bought for 99 cents at a sale, it goes against the grain to spend several times the amount of the capital investment in having it sharpened or repaired. I mean, you wouldn't want to spend three or four thousand dollars getting a one-thousand dollar car fixed, would you? The result of this mental obstacle has been that the mower has always been fixed "next year." Seven successive "next years" turned out to be this year.

Now, of course, with the mower in drydock, there was no way in which the grass could be cut—a happy situation which helps to balance off the cost of repairs and quarantine. But the trouble was intensified when, the water main leak having been stopped, the weather man turned on the almost-daily rain.

Amply watered, morderless, the part of the lawn not mastered by moss is now flourishing disastrously. Only a parching drought will save it—or, that is, me—unless the rain increases to the point where it washes the whole thing out.

But as far as a smooth expanse from house to roadway is concerned—that will probably have to await next winter's fall of snow, if it falls in quantities well over a foot deep.

Divine Propagandist

At a time when one hears so much negative propaganda blared from radio and T.V. it was with gratitude we read the excerpts from Lord Beaverbrook's book, "The Divine Propagandist" published by you in the Saturday Magazine section of your paper.

Having always thought of Lord Beaverbrook as a hard-headed newspaperman, out to scoop all the other newspapers and make money, we were glad to find he is a thoughtful man along spiritual lines as well as looking for the root and answers to the state of confusion in the world today.

He goes to the unfailing source of such enlightenment—the Lord Jesus Himself. His findings are so easy to understand. We are sure many readers like ourselves found new inspiration and hope from the article.

Thank you for printing it, may we please have more along these lines.

Centenarian

My first visit to Victoria, B.C., was in 1909. Visiting my sons and friends these last few weeks awakens latent memories. At the Royal Athletic Park one evening I was surprised at the realism created, and with a little imagination it made a perfect reproduction of those early years. I may add great praise is due to the promoters of the Centennial Committee.

Coincidentally as a centenarian myself, I was born in Hants, Eng., March 17, 1861, married Aug. 2nd, 1886, Diamond Jubilee Wedding Anniversary, Aug. 2nd, 1946. Century milestone—March 17th, 1961.

Absentees

During the recent Dominion elections, practically every provincial premier travelled across the country, speaking on behalf of his party. Members of the various cabinets also took part in this "jamboree."

Now, these men are hired or elected by the voters to do a specific job within the confines of their own bailiwick and by taking "French leave" they commit a serious dereliction of duty.

My remedy for this is as follows:

1. Before taking part in any engineering campaign in any provincial elections, the Prime Minister of Canada and members of his cabinet must get "leave of absence" from the cabinet.

2. Provincial premiers and members of cabinet rank will not take part actively or otherwise, in Dominion elections or in elections in any province outside of their own, unless sanction from the cabinet has been obtained.

3. Should permission be obtained to participate in any of the aforementioned elections, the following ruling will apply:

To each and every one of the participants in the Centennial Pageant, who, on the stage or behind the scenes made it possible for us, as spectators to enjoy it, I would like to say "Thank You" for letting us relive the history of Victoria from its beginning until this year of 1962.

From the opening scene until the finale it was excellent in its portrayal of past and present. As for myself I am not a native Victorian but after seeing the Centennial Pageant I am proud to be a resident of Victoria.

WASHINGTON:

Waiting To See

By MAX FREEDMAN

THE latest phase of the debate on President Kennedy's trade program holds instructive, and humiliating, lessons for Canadians. Everyone now is aware that the president is asking for the broadest powers in American history for the creation of an economic partnership between the Common Market and the United States. His program, already approved by the House of Representatives, is now being studied by the Senate.

The friends and supporters of this legislation are not satisfied with its bold and unprecedented provisions. They are even now engaged in an active campaign to see that all exceptions under the president's program are rigorously defined, are temporary in character, and are subject to detailed review. They are opposed to any economic group being granted a form of protection on the ground that its problems are special and unique.

These advocates of the new trade policy, both in Congress and in the administration, make no secret of their anxiety over current trends in Canada.

They believe the Diefenbaker government will try to use the Canadian financial crisis as an excuse for a new experiment in protectionism. What is worse, this will not be protectionism, blatant and unashamed, as in the days of the late R. B. Bennett; it will be sneaking protectionism, furtive in method, and secretive in aim.

It will try to perpetuate the restrictions on imports imposed ostensibly to improve Canada's balance of payments position. At the same time they believe the Diefenbaker government will try, under the most favored nation clause, to gain the benefits of President Kennedy's trade initiative without making any important concessions to open Canada to more imports.

Everything they know of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, both before and after the election, confirms their fears.

Nothing like this American anxiety was present after the dollar crisis which forced a Liberal government to impose temporary restraints on American imports.

Close Range

I watched those Canadian-American negotiations at close range and was thoroughly familiar with them. Never before have I written about them; but I am ready to do so now because of the passage of time and the peculiar characteristics of the Diefenbaker caretaker government.

I can name five Canadians and three Americans who took part in these negotiations and who can confirm the accuracy of my statements. Mr. Diefenbaker can conduct his own independent check-in the files of the Department of External Affairs.

In forecasting Canada's present crisis Mr. James Coyne said Canada was living beyond its means. In explaining the earlier dollar crisis Mr. Lou Rasmussen said Canada was living beyond its customers' means. Canada had overextended itself. It had assumed various obligations without having an adequate export surplus to pay for them. It needed temporary help, and correctly relying on an old friend, it turned with success to the United States.

The climactic negotiations were conducted in the home of the distinguished and unforgettable Canadian ambassador, the late Hume Wrong. In view of the urgency and importance of these negotiations, the late Clifford Clark, the famous deputy minister of finance, came to Washington on one of his rare visits to participate in the final phase of these discussions.

The American delegation at once recognized the force of the Canadian case. In fact, under a pledge of secrecy, these American officials themselves suggested additional American goods against which Canada should discriminate. All this was being done by the United States at the very time when non-discrimination was the cherished principle of American commercial policy. Why was an exception being made for Canada?

One Reason

There was only one reason. The United States knew it could trust the Liberal government and it knew, in particular, that it could trust its pledge to eliminate the restrictions at the earliest moment.

One further point must be added. Inside the Liberal party itself the strongest pressure was exerted to ensure that the Liberal pledge would be honored without delay and without evasion.

A group of Liberal newspapers, led by the Winnipeg Free Press, kept up a steady campaign to enforce this lesson. In Parliament a band of valiant Liberals spoke bravely and effectively against even a temporary drift into protectionism.

DESPITE ROADBLOCK OF KEY MEASURES

No Cracks in Kennedy's Marble Calm

John F. Kennedy is rounding out his second year in the White House, halfway through the term he narrowly won in 1960. What kind of job is he doing? In this first article in a three-part series, Associated Press reporter Kelman Morin pictures the president at mid-term.

By KELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy appears to be the best air-conditioned man in Washington these days.

While the political wind blows hot from Capitol Hill, Kennedy looks cool. He sits in his rocking chair, crunching the ice from a soft drink, slowly smoking a thin cigar, examining the record as he approaches mid-term in his first term in the White House. There are no visible cracks in his marble calm. True, he flared up recently—at least for television—after the Senate killed a bill providing health assistance for the aged. Before the Senate vote, however, he knew "medicare" stood little or no chance of passing the House of Representatives this year. So now Kennedy has it as an issue in the November congressional elections. He expects to use it effectively.

In other key measures, too, as conservative members of his own Democratic party sided with the remarkably unified Republicans, Congress has been road-blocking the president. It shelved his farm bill, the general school aid bill, his several requests for stand-by powers, and a department of urban affairs.

But if he feels frustrated, he doesn't show it. He talks optimistically. He says the record looks pretty good now and, hopefully, will be better by the time Congress adjourns.

PENDING BILLS

He bases this on the outlook for several pending bills that he considers important.

One is the Trade Expansion Act. It arms the president with authority to negotiate reciprocal reductions of tariffs on a broad range of products. It would affect the future relations between the American producer and the European Common Market.

The others are federal aid to higher education, and the Youth Employment Opportunities Act.

In Kennedy's first year, a recession ended. Economic barometers began moving up in early spring. The recovery, however, has been slower than from two previous down-turns.

To day, the economy, though big, is mushy. It shows few signs of breaking through the levels the administration predicted. Employment is high, but so is unemployment, stubbornly holding at 5.3 per cent of the labor force.

SIGHTS TOO HIGH

One view is that the administration simply set its sights too high in terms of the growth rate, reduction of unemployment, and gross national product.

To Kennedy's critics, the sharp break in the stock market is the "Kennedy crash."

His own analysis: "I think most financial experts have realized for some time that an over-priced market could not hold up once investors realized that inflation was ended."

Kennedy has made special efforts to convince businessmen that he isn't "anti-business." But to many of them, if not most, he still wears that label, and he realizes it.

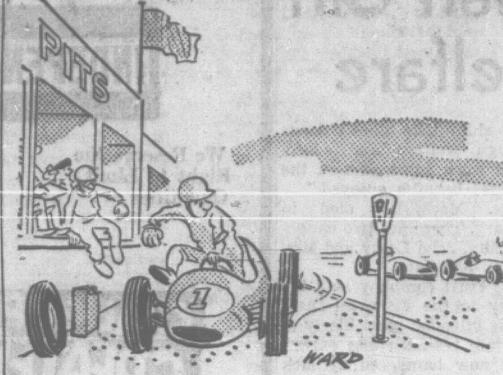

The principal criticisms that you hear in Washington today sometimes cancel each other out. One man says: "He twists too many arms to get what he wants." But another tells you: "He hasn't fought hard enough for his program."

Conservatives accuse him of "financial irresponsibility" and being "socialistic." Liberals say he is more concerned for the U.S. gold reserves and the balance of payments than for people.

4,000 Russ Troops Reported in Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban news specialist claims that more than 4,000 Russian troops have landed in Cuba recently. The Associated Press' Havana correspondent, George Arfeld, said there had been rumors recently of Soviet troop landings, but none of them could be confirmed.

In a Spanish broadcast from a Miami station Tuesday, Dr. Salvador Leu attributed his information to travellers from Cuba in a position to know. The program, Voice of the People, broadcast by WMIE for Miami's refugee population, said the reported troops were sent in response to Fidel Castro's fear of rebellion.

An associate, Ramiro Boza, declined to name the source of the broadcast information, but said, "We know it is true when this source tells."

There was no immediate comment from the state department in Washington. "They were soldiers."

OTTAWA (CP) — Old Dobbins continues to disappear from the Canadian farm scene.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today that the number of horses on Canadian farms at June 1 decreased by 6.5 per cent to 477,200 from 510,000 at the corresponding date last year.

The bureau also reported that the number of milk cows dropped 1 per cent to 2,955,500, with most of the decline taking place in the West.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

A Form of Severe Backache

There are millions of people who have a backache that is bearable, and there are thousands who have a backache that is almost unbearable, or which makes work or even getting out of bed almost impossible. In these cases it is a tremendous help to have a team of experts making a study, and using their great experience in the field.

I was just reading an excellent article by Drs. N. W. Hoover, P. J. Kelly and William J. Martin, of the Mayo Clinic, who described their experience with types of backache in which the pain is very severe and lasting. They spoke of an inflammation of part of the spine due to a definite germ. In most cases the germ seems to get into the spine by way of the blood-stream.

The infection may come from the skin, or the upper respiratory tract, or from the urinary tract. Sometimes a man with a urinary infection who has a cystoscope (lighted tube) passed into his bladder will later develop a severe inflammation of the lower part of his spine, with tremendous backache.

Usually the spinal muscles are tense. The patient, if he is able to walk at all, will walk gingerly, because each time he takes a step he gets more pain and more spasm in his back muscles. The pain often is referred into the abdomen because it follows long nerves that come out of the spine and run forward. In many of these cases, the diagnosis can be made by pushing a specially-designed needle into a spinal vertebra or into the tissues alongside of it, and thereby getting out some material which then is examined for germs.

The treatment in severe cases is rest in bed, perhaps for three months or so. Sometimes the patient should be put in a long plaster cast, extending down to his knees.

Sometimes the disease and the pain is up in the vertebrae of the neck, and then a special collar may have to be worn. Sometimes these persons can be helped with strong antibiotics which will kill off the harmful germs. Often an exact diagnosis is hard to make.

The pain of either an infection or a tumor of the spine tends to come on gradually, and once it is established it does not let up, but is severe and for a while likely to get worse rather than better. Although this pain may be made worse by movement, it is less likely to be relieved by staying in bed than is a pain which is due, let us say, to a ruptured disc. With the infection there is likely to be loss of weight, loss of strength and loss of appetite.

Hundreds of women keep writing to ask what is the best way to get rid of superfluous hair on the face, the thighs and the breasts. As Dr. Howard T. Behrman said recently the only method for getting completely rid of the hair is by an electrical destruction of the tiny "papilla" in which the hair grows and develops. Today this is done with a fine needle which the operator tries to insert exactly in the papilla. He or she then turns on a diathermy or high-frequency type of current which coagulates and destroys the papilla. If the papilla is destroyed, that is the end of the hair.

But, unfortunately, when even an expert technician does the work, from 15 to 25 per cent of the hairs are likely to grow back, and then they will have to be treated again. Naturally, the treatments take time and may cost more than the woman can afford. Many women with superfluous hair shave every day or they use "wax depilation," or chemical creams. These methods do not destroy the hair papilla and hence the hair grows out again.

HOME GARDEN

Now is Time to Think Ahead

August is another catching-up month before fall, as March is before the spring rush of garden work.

While there is leisure for the job, it is a good idea to think ahead to the pot plants wanted in flower at Christmas.

Small plants of the Christmas blooming cactus, Zygocactus truncatus, can now be put into one size larger pots. See that drainage is good, and that the soil has plenty of humus and some sand.

Corms of freesias saved from last winter can be shaken out of the old soil (they keep best during summer) if left in the pots of soil quite dry) and replanted in fresh, rich soil in clean pots. If the soil is slightly damp, do no watering until the green shoots appear. The pots may be kept in a shady spot outdoors until the weather becomes quite cool.

If seedlings of freesias are becoming grown, do not disturb them by separating them. Transfer the whole potful into a larger pot, where they will grow larger and most likely will flower this coming winter.

Next August the corms may be separated, and potted up at the rate of about six around the edge of a five-inch pot.

$2 Million MacMillan Gift Aids Education, Welfare

VANCOUVER (CP) — H. R. MacMillan, British Columbia timber magnate, has established a $2,000,000 trust fund for education and welfare.

The Canada Trust Company, trustee of the H. R. MacMillan family fund said Mr. MacMillan has deposited securities valued at $2,000,000 with it.

The general objectives of the fund are:

To help B.C. educational institutions at the university level and worthy and needy students through loans, scholarships, bursaries, prizes and other methods;

To help the University of B.C. faculty of forestry and institute of fisheries.

CHURCH ALSO BENEFITS

At the same time the United Church of Canada is a beneficiary with money going to help its work in the province generally and to its pension fund, Union Theological College at UBC and the advantages of a commun-

Mr. MacMillan, 77, is retired although he is still honorary chairman of the board of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell-River Ltd., one of the giant wood products complexes in North America.

The trust fund is given the right to distribute capital and income and is required to spend it all within 50 years but not before 30 years.

In a statement Mr. MacMillan said:

"The intention is that some of the worthy purposes to which Mrs. MacMillan and I have given support over the years will continue to be helped during the lifetime of my immediate family."

'Reluctant' Witnesses Scuttled 'Douk' Case

Forty-eight Crown witnesses either changed their stories or refused to testify in British Columbia's vain bid to try 70 Freedemite Doukhobors on conspiracy charges, Attorney-General Robert Bonner disclosed Tuesday.

Mr. Bonner said his lawyers are currently studying the decision of magistrate Williams Evans, in New Westminster, dismissing the charges after a preliminary hearing.

"I will await their further word before indicating any course of action," he added. (Normally there is no appeal after dismissal of charges. However some bid for a new hearing or new charges might be possible.)

Mr. Bonner said the "turn-coat" witnesses were mostly Doukhobors themselves.

DIFFICULT PROSECUTION

"The public should know the Crown counsel involved were confronted with a very difficult and technical prosecution, complicated by the fact that not less than 48 witnesses upon whom the Crown had relied in bringing charges either changed their stories or refused to testify once the matter got into court," he said.

He said that George Murray, QC, who acted for the Crown, was one of the most experienced lawyers in conspiracy charges in the province.

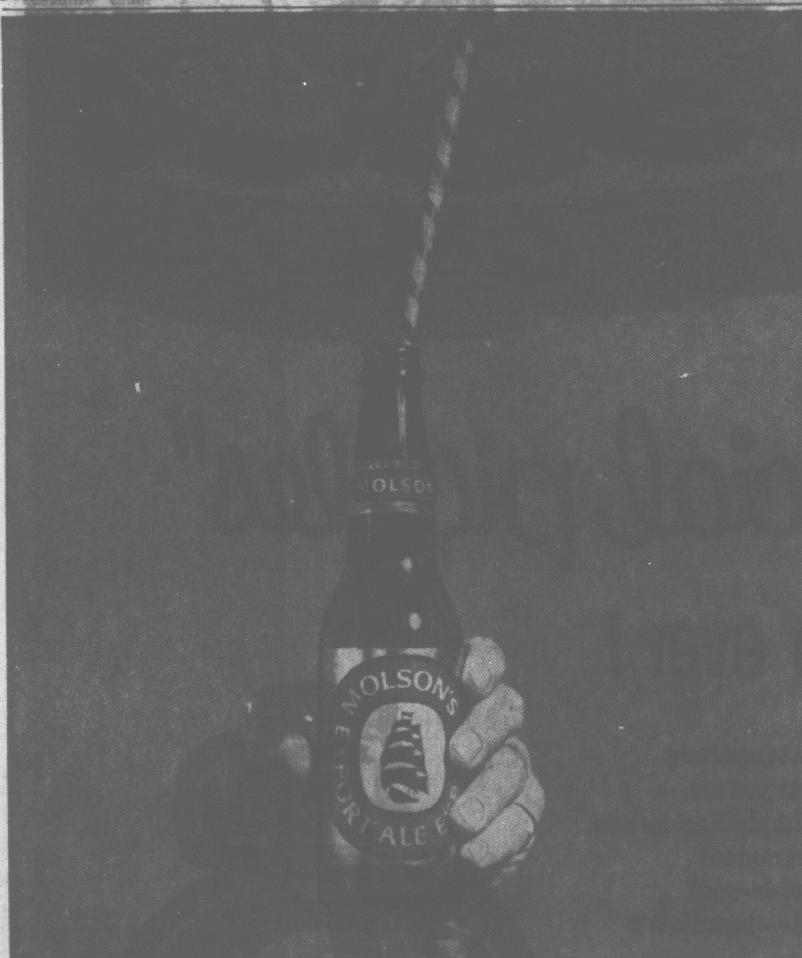

The conspiracy charges against the members of the Freedemite council were laid after a year of investigation into bombing and terrorism, said Mr. Bonner.

New CD Evacuation Map For Victoria Ready

Distribution of a new evacuation map and instructions to the public will take place soon, following Civil Defence control committee approval of them last week.

The instructions are part of a master plan for Victoria target area — extending north to Chemainus and west to Port Renfrew — which was endorsed in principle by the mayor and municipal reeves and their CD co-ordinators.

Target areas coordinator William Mathers urged local areas to prepare their own emergency plans so they may be submitted for approval and vetting by the area organization.

He was authorized to go ahead with printing and distribution of copies of instructions to the householders of the target area.

Mr. Mathers reviewed planning progress to date, including the organization of 3,500 woodsmen, millworkers and miners and their heavy equipment for use as mobile support under direction and control of the army in the event of a nuclear strike on Victoria.

Their employers have pledged them as main strength of a rescue corps, he said, adding that a first column would be available to Civil Defence on three hours notice.

The plans include evacuation of the city if there is strategic warning of attack.

It would be voluntary and simple, the object being to get as many people moving in private cars, trucks and transit vehicles as highways will allow — three abreast at 50 miles an hour if possible, along main routes which would become one-way highways.

All Victoria and Esquimalt people — except for a few north of Haultain and Hillside — would go on Highway 14 to Sooke and Jordan River-Port Renfrew area.

Remaining Victorians, citizens of Oak Bay and Saanich would go via Trans-Canada Highway to Duncan and points north.

The unincorporated areas of Belmont, Colwood, Glen Lake, Happy Valley, Albert Head and Metchosin would go via Metchosin and Rocky Point Roads to East Sooke.

Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney people would go to Deep Cove area.

Evacuation of non-passenger equipment and 66 per cent of all firefighting equipment would be secondary, moving to Patricia Bay airport.

"It doesn't matter how much equipment is lost; if we lose lives we are guilty," the co-ordinator said.

ISLAND NEWS

Duncan Plans Record Parade For Jubilee

DUNCAN — The biggest parade in the history of the city is planned for Sept. 8 to mark Duncan's 50th birthday.

Jaycees officials report that over 55 entries for the parade have been received so far, and that another 40 are expected.

"The committee is aiming for 100 entries," said Ari Van Donkelaar, parade marshal, "and this would give us an hour-long parade, making it the biggest in the history of the city."

INDIAN DISPLAY

One of the features of the parade will be a display by the native Indians, who will enter a float that will include war canoes.

The parade will be part of Duncan golden jubilee celebrations, to be held in conjunction with the annual Cowichan Exhibition Sept. 7-8 at the agricultural grounds.

Among the attractions will be a puppet show, motor-cycle races, a horseshoe-pitching contest, a women's nail-driving contest, a gymkhana and a talent contest.

Keen competition among farmers and 4-H club members is expected in the live-stock show.

Another highlight will be the hobby exhibition in the curling rink featuring native arts and crafts, photography and garden produce.

Probe Water Supply

DUNCAN — Reports of a "gummy" substance in the city's water supply have prompted city council to set up an investigating committee.

It is believed that the substance is tar.

Ad. Hamish Mutter suggested that the steel pipe used in the city's water system may have something to do with it.

Repeats Victory

NANAIMO — Wандерт van Appelen, Port Alberni, repeated his 1961 victory by winning the Nanaimo Protection Island marathon swim during Departure Bay Days.

Organizers blamed a poor entry—64 starters or half the 1961 number—on bad weather conditions.

A third of them finished the race.

Signs Needed

CAMPBELL RIVER — Fish and Game Club members met this week with Bob Broadland, park planning officer for the parks branch, to press their request for directional signs on the way to Elk Falls Park.

Mr. Broadland agreed more signs were needed but was doubtful that any would be erected this year.

Bylaw Passed

NANAIMO—Despite protests by the petroleum industry, city council has passed the controversial service station closing by-law in its original form.

The petroleum industry objected to requirements that garages which are permitted to operate on a 24-hour basis must have at least two employees on duty at all times, and that a service vehicle be available for towing jobs.

These requirements are regarded as "uneconomical and insupportable," by the industry.

'Happy Mishap'

PARKSVILLE—A mishap in which a heavy floodgate accidentally dropped shut during explosions at Horne Lake, trapping masses of silt in the tunnel system designed to carry controlled-temperature water from the lake to the Big Qualicum River, is now regarded as a good thing.

Charles Clay, chief engineer on the fisheries department project, said that the silt will now have to be excavated from the tunnel system, but the river is free of silt which would have been flushed through the tunnel system into it.

The gate is to close off flow from the lake into the river to help salmon survival.

Catches Improve

TOFINO — Continually improved catches are being reported by commercial fishermen operating out of this area.

The seiners are reporting sets of up to 1,000 fish, and the trollers are also happy with improved fishing, which has picked up well after a slow start this season.

Manager Joe Iannarelli, who will supervise the clinic, said today the classes will be open to any player of midget, juvenile or junior age.

Two-hour sessions will include an hour of "classroom" drill and an hour "on ice." They will be held from 9 to 11 p.m. Aug. 13, 15 and 17.

Iannarelli said an attempt is being made to obtain well-known pro hockey players to assist in the school.

Registration, which will be limited, can be made in writing or by phoning the Sports Centre.

All championships will be defended by British Columbia golfers with Janet McWha of Vancouver Point Grey defending the senior championship, and Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver Capilano defending the junior. Both team championships also are held by B.C. teams.

Miss Hitchens, although defending her junior crown, will play on the senior team.

SHORT PITCHES

When driving with a wood, power is of first importance with accuracy being second.

But the closer you get to the hole, the more important accuracy becomes. On short pitch shots, for example, you can almost forget about power and concentrate on accuracy.

Today's illustration shows my form for a short pitch shot with a nine-iron. Note how both of my feet are still flat on the ground even though I'm at the top of my backswing. I find that I have much greater accuracy by keeping both heels flat on the ground. They limit the backswing and help the accuracy. And accuracy is what I want in this shot.

The less body movement and hip pivot I put into this shot, the better will be my accuracy. Try to handle as much of the shot with your armswing and shoulder turn as possible. Some hip pivot will come naturally, but try to keep both feet planted firmly.

Saskatchewan, Nanaimo End, Impress Lions' Skrien

B.C. Lions' coach Dave Skrien wanted a peek at Saskatchewan Roughriders before they slip into Vancouver for the Lions' Western Football Conference opener Thursday. So he turned on his television set and watched Roughriders maul Calgary 17-6.

"I was impressed," Skrien said. "In a defensive game the Roughriders were superior."

Saskatchewan's new quarterback, Dave Sarette, Syracuse, caught Skrien's eye. "He showed he could move the team."

The Lions, meanwhile, cut three players and added one. Gone are halfbacks Norris Stevenson and Ted Woods and Canadian tackle George Grant. This assured permanent employment for import backfielders Tom Larscheid of Utah State and Mack Burton of San Jose State.

Added: Greg Findlay, Nanaimo, 20, a 215-pound end.

Beating Nanaimo All Fergie Wants

Shamrock Coach Not Upset Over $100 Fine

It's Nanaimo against Victoria, but despite suggestions that tonight's Inter-City Lacrosse League game may turn out to be a blood bath, Shamrock coach Arnold Ferguson is concerned about one thing. Winning.

He can care less about a $100 fine levied against the Shamrocks.

And, although the leniency of it irks him, Fergie refuses to let his ulcer become aggravated over the fact Nanaimo's Tom McVie was tagged with "only" a one-game suspension.

Both the suspension and fine are the direct result of the riotous meeting between the teams in Nanaimo 10 days ago.

McVie's assault on Victoria's Don Ashbee, which resulted in a 14-stitch gash on the Shamrock player's head, brought on the suspension. The peppery little McVie ponders his sins from the sidelines tonight.

'TM AMAZED'

The Shamrock team was fined the $100, according to league commissioner Tom Gordon, because Ferguson and manager Hec McNeill both stepped on the floor after Ashbee was felled by McVie's stick.

"That fine doesn't concern me," said Fergie this morning. "There's a definite regulation covering that."

"That's fine."

"I'm amazed at the other infraction, and the fact that Nanaimo's versions differ so much from the way we saw it. I personally think McVie should have received a more severe penalty, but that's neither here nor there . . ."

"At the moment, my main worry is tonight's game . . ."

To that end, Ferguson has shuffled his lineup in an attempt to snap a seven-game losing streak. Shamrocks need tonight's points to wrap up third place.

Al Davies and Jim McNeill, a pair of established regulars, are going to set the most sting from the shakeup. Both, according to Ferguson, "have looked very tired and haven't been themselves."

Davies has been given the night off. McNeill will be confined to a utility role.

VANCOUVER WINS

Meanwhile, in a game that meant nothing insofar as the standings are concerned, Vancouver defeated New Westminster 12-7 Tuesday.

The result evens the count at 6-6 in the 12 games played between the two clubs this season. However, New Westminster lost three games to other teams in the league while Vancouver was defeated only those six times.

Wayne Pecknold and Fred Usselman led Vancouver's attack with three goals apiece while Usselman also added three assists.

Jack Barclay and Jack Blonda each scored two goals to pace the New Westminster attack.

MONTE ROBERTS

People keep asking me, what in the name of George I. Warren has happened to the summer weather in this, the Fairest City of Them All?

And I keep saying to people, shhhh, the Vancouver tourist bureau may hear you and stop urging all those nice tourists to come here instead of staying in Vancouver, cluttering up the streets with their vulgar $20 bills.

But people persist in asking me, what's with the weather? Who, what, when and why here?

This is a good question, but before I can answer it, you must have an understanding of weather itself.

Weather can be described as fair, foul, infield out-exuse it, wrong thesis—cold, hot, tempestuous, lovely, lousy, or "what's the difference, I wasn't going out any-way."

Putting it succinctly, weather is nothing but a state of mind. The kind of weather greeted with dancing on the campus by the sun-bathers sends the gladiolus-grower rushing around for sunbrellas. The kind of weather which keeps the potential golfer glowering in the locker room keeps the potential lawn-cutter glowing in comfort on the chesterfield.

Everything, as Einstein said, is relative, on the including the humidity.

Now that weather itself has been explained in simple terms which any schoolboy can understand (it is MY fault you are not any schoolboy?) let us turn to an explanation of what in the name of George I. Warren has happened to the summer weather in this, the Fairest City of Them All?

As usual, a storm brewing in the Gulf of Alaska is mainly responsible, of which more later.

But the basic reason for the liquidity of our current crop of sunshine is the relative humidity, or, in simple terms, the amount of water vapor present in the air.

In meteorological circles, this is measured by a psychrometer. I am unable to give you the latest psychrometer reading, as the instrument has been severely strained, and is now undergoing psychrometranalysis.

Another instrument used to measure humidity in the air is the hair hygrometer. This is a modern adaptation of the stone age method, when men went out without their hats, and if their hair got wet, they knew it was raining.

I, personally, went out without my hat last night, and I can assure you, it WAS raining.

But as to the original question, what's with the summer weather? I can assure you it isn't the nuclear test fall-out.

It's just that Alaska is flexing its muscles as a State of the Union, brewing a storm in its Very Own Gulf, and never forgetting for a moment that stirring battle-cry:

FIFTY-FOUR FORTY OR PHOOEY.

DEADLINE EXTENDED ON CARPARK

Deadline for tenders on the largest of two city of Victoria parking facilities has been extended five days because of interest expressed by local, mainland and Alberta contractors.

Bids were due by Thursday but will be acceptable up to 1 p.m. next Tuesday, city engineer James Garnett said today.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Service station operators in Saanich decide by ballot today whether they will name their own business hours.

If a majority approves, late hours will be extended to midnight, but if the vote is negative the 45 stations must close at 6 p.m.

Operators wishing to keep later hours must then apply to the municipality for permission to stay open to 7 p.m. in winter and 9 p.m. in summer.

The ballot is being taken at the municipal hall, 9 a.m. 5 p.m.

ASK The TIMES

Q. How many textile mills are there in Canada? How many of them are Canadian-owned?—L.M.

A. There are more than 700 primary textile mills in Canada, spread across the 10 provinces, and the industry is 80% Canadian-owned; it is the country's second largest source of employment in manufacturing, behind the clothing industry.

Q. How many passengers were carried on Canadian air-lines in 1961?—B.D.V.

A. Canadian air carriers transported 4,949,283 revenue passengers in 1961, an increase of 222,000 over 1960.

EDUCATION IN USES AND ABUSES

New Victoria Hypnosis Society May Offer Courses to Public

Victorians may soon be able to enrol in a public course teaching the mysteries of hypnosis.

A group called the "Hypnosis Society of B.C." is being organized in Victoria. The society originated in Calgary four-and-a-half years ago.

John W. Jones, 110 East Maddock, a graduate of five courses in hypnosis, will head the Victoria society which plans to educate the public in the uses and abuses of hypnosis.

"We will not teach anyone how to use hypnosis as a stage gag," said Mr. Jones. "One of the top roots of this society is to abolish stage hypnosis. Until it can be taken out of the entertainment sphere it can never really come to a head in the therapeutic field."

Mr. Jones said his hypnosis society is not trying to usurp the position of the medical profession in Victoria.

STORM MOVING IN MAY SPOIL WEEKEND

Today's fitful sunshine and Thursday's predicted warmth don't mean much in long-range terms, Victoria weather office warns.

"We suggest that anyone who has a choice about getting outdoors make use of it," a Gonzales Hill prognosticator said. "Another storm is edging along the Alaska coast, and there's no reason to suppose it will miss us."

An occasional shower may materialize this evening, but brighter weather is predicted for Thursday. By the weekend, however, clouds ticketed for Vancouver may be spilling their overflow on Victoria heads.

Room temperature at Gonzales was 57, and overnight low will be 52, climbing to a Thursday high of 65.

British Columbia woods are almost fire-free. In Vancouver Forest District the only outbreak still under patrol is the stubborn Lens Creek "creeper" near Cowichan Lake.

DEAR ABBY...

The Left Hand Forward!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What does a girl do after she has just received an engagement ring? Does she stick it under everybody's nose? Or does she wait until somebody notices it and asks to see it more closely?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: She usually waits for someone to "notice" it. And it shouldn't be difficult to "notice" because most newly-engaged girls suddenly become "left-handed."

DEAR ABBY: I have a hale-brained daughter who has been teaching school for nine years. She has been keeping company with a man who owns his own business. They are not engaged and so far I haven't seen any signs of it. He has been taking up her time for five years. They are not kids. She's 31 and he is 39. If she doesn't have sense enough to ask this guy when he is going to marry her, don't you think I should step in?

HER FATHER

DEAR FATHER: A 31-year-old "girl" doesn't need her father to run interference for her. Sit tight, Daddy. Maybe daughter likes it this way.

PROUD MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: What's so wonderful about a 9-week-old baby turning over by itself, and a 23-year-old child doing the Twist? My baby did the Twist and turned over by himself before he was born!

New Fry Pan Cleaner Ends Your Black Bottom Blues

By PENNY SAVER

Groans of despair have been heard from housewives who haven't been able to remove black marks on the bottom of their electric fry pans. But those moans will fade away now that a new Canadian-made cleaner has appeared on the scene.

Especially produced for appliances that cannot be dunked in the dishpan and scrubbed, this cleaner is merely rolled on with a brush provided with the can. You let it stand for 30 to 60 minutes before using the brush to swirl cleaner and grease into a creamy consistency. Last step is to wash it off with hot water.

Warning! This cleaner is so strong that manufacturer recommends you wear rubber gloves when working with it, as it will burn your skin unless washed off immediately with soap.

Available in a local department store, it comes in an eight-ounce can for $1.

Gadget hunting, Penny came across a handy item for cherry canners who prefer their cherries without pits. It's a cherry pitter, natch! One of those simple gadgets you wish you'd thought of.

Cherry sits innocently on a circular ring while you plunge down with a metal rod and knock the pit out. Weight is just 49 cents.

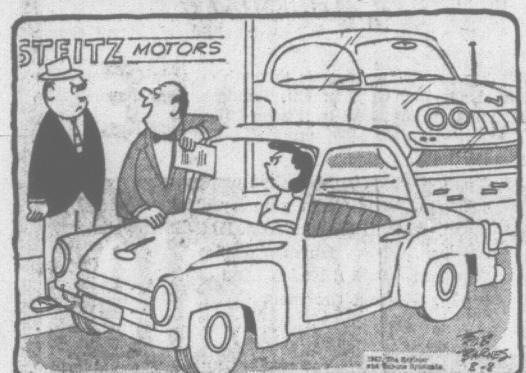

If you make a cherry pie, you may once again wish for an item that always seems to be lacking in Penny's house—a pie server. At last I have found a genuine one.

Blade is triangular shape and slopes up a pie-depth to the long handle. One edge of blade is serrated too, to help get out those stubborn pieces. Price is $1.98.

Call Penny at 382-3131 if you wish to know where she shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

On Marathon 7 Weeks, Lost 19 Pounds Already

The following letter from a Self-Improvement Marathon winner brings up two questions I think a lot of women might want to ask me, namely, how many calories a day should one have when reducing, and how fast can one expect to lose.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman: How happy I am! I never thought I could do it. I have been following your 8-Week

Self-Improvement Marathon for seven weeks, going on eight, and have lost 19 fat pounds. I still have some more to lose and am going to continue counting calories until I weigh 135 to 137 pounds.

"I held myself to 1,200 calories a day. My doctor told me that is what I should do. My measurements are in good proportion. I exercise faithfully."

How many calories a woman should have when reducing depends on several factors—her size, metabolism and physical activity. The person who is very inactive will have to cut her calorie intake lower than a very active person does. The same thing is true of the woman who has a low metabolism.

Most women will lose successfully with a 1,200 calorie-a-day intake. Others may find 1,000 better. If you have a lot of weight to lose, the result will be prettier if you lose only two to two-and-a-half pounds a week. If you have only a few pounds to lose, you can use a short, rapid diet. You also can use this for an encouraging start on a longer pull.

If some of you missed my 8-Week Self-Improvement Marathon, which ran last January, and want to get ready for fall with a loss of from 15 to 20 pounds in the next eight weeks, you may want my Marathon booklet. If so, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Scalloped
Crabmeat Delight

Are you looking for something different that is especially good to serve? Scalloped crab meat delight can be prepared in advance and just popped into the oven 15 minutes before serving time. To one cup of medium cream sauce fold in a can of flaked crab meat, one tablespoon lemon juice and a dash of Worcestershire sauce. Put in individual baking dishes and sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until heated through and crumbs are browned.

Short pale blue brocade sheaths with overskirts of nylon sheer were chosen by the attendants. Miss Lynne Stewart was maid of honor; Mrs. Fran Graham, bridesmatron, and Mrs. Myrna Eardley, bridesmaid.

Brother of the groom, Bill Cambrey, acted as best man. Noel Peters, the bride's brother, and Tom Eardley were ushers.

At a reception in Holyrood House, the bride's uncle, Cecil Dowling, Vancouver, proposed the toast.

For her going-away ensemble Mrs. Cambrey chose an imported Italian knit suit in aquamarine shade, with black accessories. Her corsage was an orchid in burgundy tone.

The couple will live at 2361 Queenswood Drive.

Colored Chalk Markings Show on Printed Fabrics

"Dear Eunice Farmer: What is the quickest and most accurate method of transferring the pattern markings to printed or textured materials and also garments that are to be lined?"

Mrs. A.J.R.

These markings may be made with colored chalk on the wrong side of your fabric. Darts can be marked by making a quarter-inch clip at each side of the end of the dart, and chalk mark the point where dart ends. It is best to mark with tailor tacks any markings from your pattern that you will not be using immediately.

When your garment is to be completely lined, you will not have to mark your garment fabric at all, simply place all your markings on the lining itself. A tracing wheel would be satisfactory for markings on the lining.

Garden Party

Annual garden party of the Burns Club of Victoria will be held on Saturday, commencing at 2:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Cooper, 1988 Ferndale Road.

There will be a gate prize, raffles and tea cup readings. Entertainment will include numbers by the club piper, Pipe Major Peter George, by dancers of the Costain School and the Victoria Lions Club Drum and Bell Corps, also songs by Reg Stofer.

Club president Hugh Ross, with Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, will greet those who attend.

No Matter How It's Thrown Mud Can Be a Sticky Mess

By Elizabeth Forbes

I met a mud-slinger last week, and three, that cars should proceed at not more than 20 miles an hour.

I obeyed the signs. When I reached the new piece of road I was crawling along at 20 and even then water was splashing and pebbles were spitting from under my wheels.

Some sixth sense made me roll up the window at my elbow. Not because anyone was coming either way that I could see, but just as a precautionary measure.

The window was no sooner closed than a powerful car came rushing from behind me, hit the new asphalt at my left at more than 60 miles per hour, mud and gravel, water and mud rose in a solid mass and descended over my Morris.

I glimpsed that the car was dark colored; that it had a lone driver and that it was a MAN. Then it disappeared in the distance.

Car, Clothes and Hands Suffer

All one side of my car was coated with a thick brown mess; the windshield was covered, the headlights coated and I had mud on my stockings and on my suit where I had touched the stuff as I opened the door. My hands were soon coated, too, as I worked with rags and paper to clean the windshield in order to make the ferry.

When we got back to the city I tried to wash the mud off with the hose but it was no use. I left the car out in the rain for the night, but still the mud stuck.

On Saturday morning I took it in to a car wash centre and after a good 20 minutes of sloshing with steam and water and rubbing with sheepskins and rags, they got the muck off.

Cadboro's Mystic Springs In Commercial Use Again

Renowned Mystic Springs of Cadboro Bay have come down and the operation moved into their first commercial use by the new owners—Canadian Industries Ltd.—to James Is. At the turn of the century spring water was piped from the heights overlooking the bay to the Giant Powder Co.'s explosive factory on Telegraph Bay. But the water flows today below the surface of the sandy, gravelly soil as it has for untold years, heading for tidewater at Gyro Park.

Cadboro Village has taken advantage of the flow a few feet beneath its foundations.

PERFORATED PIPE

A network of perforated pipes was laid under the site and leading to three cisterns which will be covered by steel lids in the parking area.

They are linked by other pipes and an electric pump which takes the water at a constant 40 degrees to a bank of refrigeration units below the Shop Easy store.

The cold water cools refrigeration coils and when the system is completed the resulting warm water will be used for heating and in a permanent sprinkling system.

FLOW CONSTANT

Engineering tests show a constant flow of 1,200 gallons an hour at one cistern, water which would otherwise run wasted through storm drains.

To ensure stability for the foundations, the building sits on footings five feet wide with reinforcing steel set four inches apart.

And where there are stores

MODERN STORES LINKED TO PAST

Character of Old 'Village' Retained by Shopping Centre

Cadboro Village is a shopping centre with some odd facets of character.

Apart from its stylized chalet-type roof and rustic natural stone facings it is probably the only group of stores having:

- A cedar shake roof from service station to professional offices.

- Foundations without piles, built on a bog over subterranean springs.

- Everlasting warm water for auxiliary heating and irrigation for planted areas.

- A direct link with Cadboro Bay's first community store and post office dating back at least 54 years.

LOCALLY DESIGNED

The attractive design is the most striking feature, and this, too, is a local effort.

Cadboro Bay Holdings Ltd. is the developing firm, in which the principal shareholders are Lou Holker—unofficial "mayor" of the village—Mrs. Garnons Williams and John Damgard.

Spokesman Holker, an avid community booster who has lived 45 years on the bay, said: "I didn't want a place that looked like a box. We designed it ourselves."

BLEND WELL

Far from looking like a box, the distinctive gabled effect blends well with the informal residential district and adjoining avenue of tall, leafy trees.

The builders took advice from consulting engineer Eric Hoel.

First Refugees

From Hong Kong Arrive In Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first group of 15 of the 100 Chinese refugees from Hong Kong who will eventually come to Canada arrived in Vancouver Tuesday aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines trans-Pacific jet plane.

The group, consisting of five families including several children, will make their new home in Toronto.

On arrival here they were greeted by representatives of various Chinese civic organizations headed by Chinese consul Fon Ling Chee.

The group left almost immediately on a CPA trans-Canada flight.

only on structural engineering aspects of the concrete block, reinforced concrete and trussed roof building.

There are, besides the three professional offices and Standard service station, a Shop-Easy store, a laundromat, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, drug store and two shops as yet having no tenant.

There were four houses and the landmark Cadboro Bay Grocery on the premises when the holding company began development two years ago.

Three of the houses were moved to other sites; one was demolished and the old brick store taken down. Its post office has since relocated in a shop across Cadboro Bay Road.

LINK WITH PAST

The direct link with the past is Mrs. Williams, daughter of the late Frank V. Hobbs, bearded Saanich patriarch and local developer, who took over the original store in 1908. He died in April, 1959, aged 96.

Mrs. Williams herself was a community figure, having for years been postmistress—a familiar sight bringing mail sacks from Victoria in the village's first brass-band Model T.

The centre is accessible from three streets, Cadboro Bay Road, Sinclair and Penrhyn, covering about one third of a block virtually next door to Gyro Park.

Three steel standards support high luminaire-type floodlights for after-dark shoppers.

MAY LECTURE IN VICTORIA

Expedition Seeks Franklin Remains

By JOHN MANNING

A four-man British Commando team now in the Arctic may arrive in Victoria at the end of the summer to lecture on its experiences.

ENTRIES

VANCOUVER

FIRST RACE—Claiming, $975, for 2-year-olds and up, six furlongs:

Carry On (Gulf) 120
Lady's Eddie (Adonis) 120
Mill B (Anderson) 120
From Away (Bard) 120
Coco (Dixieland) 120
Eleanor M (Longo) 120
Some Standard (Dominique) 120

SHIPS LOCKED IN ICE

Franklin set sail in 1845 with two ships from Great Britain to search for the Northwest Passage. Though successful in locating the Passage, the expedition became locked in the ice.

Franklin died in 1847, his ships still marooned. His son, John, 44, that the girl was kidnapped.

Others feel she was slain and her body now is buried somewhere in the St. Maurice Valley region near this community 75 miles northeast of Montreal.

Still others think she just ran away from home, becoming one of hundreds who disappear each year.

NO ONE SURE

But no one knows for sure. The reports of her disappearance and possible kidnapping led to a flood of tips—all carefully but vainly checked by police—and several demands for ransom.

A 30-year-old man was sentenced to three years after he pleaded guilty to trying to extort money from the Therrien family but police are convinced he knew nothing about the girl's disappearance.

Neither of Franklin's two ships were ever seen again.

However, Eskimo legend has it that four white men were sighted at this time near Lake Franklin on the mouth of the Back River.

The next morning a man called and said Denise would be returned home safely if her family didn't call the police.

Her father did. During the next 48 hours, about seven calls came into the Therrien home, then they ceased.

After that the publicity started, followed by false and heart-breaking tips and ransom demands.

The bushland for miles around the Therrien home was searched carefully by more than 1,000 volunteers, but no indication of what happened to Denise ever was found.

Meanwhile, her father still hopes his daughter will be found alive.

Police Action Sought Against 'White Liners'

Police should tighten up on drivers who impede traffic by dawdling along the white centre line and block traffic while waiting to make a left turn in intersections, motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay said Tuesday.

An aircraft will fly the team from Yellowknife to Pelley and six weeks later pick it up at Cape Britannia.

Polden indicated if enough interest were shown in Victoria and Vancouver the expedition would journey here towards the middle of September and give a lecture tour.

Although he said all proceeds would go to charity, sponsorship would be needed to finance their journey here from Yellowknife.

EVERYTHING'S DUCKY

Mounting toll of ducks crossing highway in front of her home prompted Beth Abrams, 8, Roslyn, N.Y., to do something about it. She painted a sign reading: "Watch Out For Ducks" and placed it on a telephone pole. Her effort brought such good results that county officials took over from there. Picture shows Beth holding toy duck alongside an official custom-made duck-crossing sign placed in front of her home. (AP Wirephoto)

Argentine
Faces Army
Rebellion

General Defies
War Secretary

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A general challenged authorities of the military command today, jolting an Argentina still struggling to recover from unsettling effects of the coup that ousted President Arturo Frondizi four months ago.

Mal-Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero established himself in Jujuy, a garrison town in northern Argentina near the Bolivian border, and proclaimed himself army commander-in-chief in defiance of War Secretary Gen. Juan Bautista Loza, who has been deployed as the army's chief.

Toranzo has been commander of Argentina's 4th Army.

Loza retorted by ordering him out of his 4th Army command and proclaiming him in open rebellion.

SWIFT MEASURES

The secretary told the nation, alarmed by this new military feud, that Toranzo's surprise manoeuvre was only an isolated incident and "measures have been swiftly adopted to re-establish normality."

The rebellious general is the brother of Gen. Carlo Toranzo Montero, who rebelled against the former regime of President Arturo Frondizi in June, 1960.

The affair at this stage appeared to be a dispute within army ranks and not a move against President Jose Maria Guido's government. But it could provoke a new administrative crisis. Reports of army unrest have been circulating in Buenos Aires for several days.

'Stop Handouts'
Premiers Urge

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Canadian premiers want to stop handouts to people who can work but haven't got a job.

They want a new federal-provincial formula for welfare payments.

They want to put their unemployed to work "at going rates" of pay on useful projects such as roads, parks and public buildings.

This emerged as the major topic of discussion at the final session here Tuesday of the third annual provincial premiers' conference.

The eight premiers and two cabinet ministers representing Canada's 10 provinces were most outspoken on this issue at a press conference following their afternoon windup meeting.

The problem, said Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin:

"It is undesirable to hand out money to employable unemployed. It is much better that a reasonable occupation be found for them."

ALL AGREE

The reaction, summed up by Quebec Premier Jean Lesage: "Every premier was thinking the same thing."

The solution, if there is one, lies in the report of the conference to be made by A. S. Abel, director of federal-provincial relations in the Ottawa finance department, acting as observer at the Victoria sessions.

"The federal representative told me his government is troubled by the same problem," said conference chairman Lesage.

"He will mention it to the federal government."

The bar to the work-for-welfare plan, said Premier Bennett of B.C., is that Ottawa won't allow its welfare aid to be used in this manner at present.

The 50-50 sharing of welfare costs is strictly on a handout basis.

"What we want," said Mr. Bennett, who has raised this subject before in the provincial legislature, "is some formula where the employable part of the group can work out social assistance at the going rates of pay."

RETAIN DIGNITY

"These people can get assistance and hold their dignity, too."

New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud said the welfare recipients could work on roads and parks for governments.

The conference broke up on a note as amicable as its start.

"We have been in practical about all these items," said Mr. Lesage pointing to the 17-point agenda discussed over the past two days.

"There were no regional or political differences on any of the problems," said Mr. Bennett. "There were no partisan points of view expressed at any time—and we presented four different parties."

Mr. Lesage said the conference

Cost of Living At Record Peak

RUNNERUP LIBERALS GIVEN MOST VOTES

OTTAWA (UPI) — Official figures showed today that the runner-up Liberal party drew 4,315 more votes than the winning Conservatives in the June 18 general election.

Preliminary figures released by chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay gave the Liberals 2,871,868 votes to 2,867,553 for the Conservatives.

The New Democratic Party drew 1,036,036 votes and the Social Credit 896,427. There were 14,315 ballots cast for other candidates, including 6,356 for the Communist party.

The election gave the Conservatives 116 seats in the 265-seat Commons. The Liberals won 100, the Social Credit 30, and the NDP 19.

Food Prices Hiked By Cheap Dollar

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs in Canada rose in June to a record high level due almost entirely to a sharp rise in food prices, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today.

The consumer price index, registering its second consecutive monthly increase, advanced half a point to 131 on July 1 from 130.5 a month earlier.

The index increased in May of two-fifths of a point and the rise in June followed the May 3 dollar devaluation. However, the bureau did not spell out how much of an impact was caused by devaluation of the dollar's exchange rate to 92½ U.S. cents—a step which increased prices of imports.

The June index level compares with a figure of 129 for the corresponding month last year. The index is based on 1949 prices equaling 100.

HOUSING HIGHER

Besides higher food prices, costs of housing, transportation, health and personal care and recreation and reading were up in June.

Prices of most basic foods rose in June, boosting the food index by 1.4 points to 127 at July 1 from 125.6 a month earlier.

The advance in living costs followed an increase in industrial wages in May. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at June 1—latest date available—was 188.0 compared with 186.7 a month earlier and 181.6 a year earlier.

The housing index in June advanced to 131.5 from 131.4 a month earlier.

In shelter, the rent and home ownership indexes both were up. In household operation, increases occurred in the cost of fuel and lighting, floor coverings, textiles, utensils and equipment and household supplies. Appliance prices were somewhat lower.

The clothing index declined to 112.9 from 113.1 as a result of sale prices for men's, women's and children's wear and piece goods.

Wholesale price trends were up in June.

The index of 30 industrial materials rose to 252.6 from 251.9 in the three-week period from June 29 to July 20.

Caouette Faces Fight Within Quebec Party

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says Real Caouette, deputy Social Credit party leader, faces a struggle with his party supporters in Quebec on the question of whether to form a provincial party to fight the next provincial election.

The newspaper says in a dispatch from its Quebec City correspondent that at least five of Quebec's 26 Socred members of Parliament are in favor of forming a provincial wing of the party, contrary to Mr. Caouette's expressed wishes.

The question of forming a provincial party was raised last weekend at a meeting of Socred MPs in Montmagny, Que. At the time Socred MPs and organizers said a decision would be reached at a party convention in Trois-Rivieres, Que., Aug. 25-26.

Later Mr. Caouette was quoted as describing the talk at Montmagny about a provincial party as "unfortunate statements by irresponsible people."

NAMES FIVE

The Gazette says the five Socred MPs in favor of a Quebec wing for the party are L. P. A. Belanger, member for Charlevoix; Pierre Andre Boutin, member for Dorchester; Jean-Paul Cook, member for Montmagny-L'Islet; Lucien Plourde, member for Quebec West; and Bernard Dumont, member for Drummond-Athabasca.

Two others — Marcel Lessard, member for Lac St. Jean, and David Ouellet, member for Bellechasse — are reported supporting Mr. Caouette's view.

PRINCESS

TOO ALOOF,
PAPERS SAY

LONDON (CP) — Correspondents of two London newspapers say the people of Jamaica are complaining that Princess Margaret has been too preoccupied with official duties during the island's independence celebrations.

The correspondents of The Daily Sketch and The Daily Herald say the vice-president of the United States, Lyndon Johnson has been "kissing babies in the streets and meeting people in factories" while the princess meets dignitaries.

The Sketch correspondent says Johnson's visit "is regarded as a forerunner to a big loan of U.S. dollars."

The Herald correspondent says Johnson arrived carrying vast quantities of U.S. flags and thousands were given away. The correspondent says hardly a Union Jack was to be seen on Independence night.

"There is a feeling here that British prestige has suffered at the independence celebrations."

HIRED by Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan to kill her daughter-in-law, Luis Moya, left, and Augustine Baldonado, followed her to the gas chamber at San Quentin prison in California today.

Three Executed In Gas Chamber

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)

Elizabeth Duncan indicated today he is satisfied British negotiations with the European Common Market are proceeding with assurances that Commonwealth export interests are being respected.

He told reporters after a morning cabinet meeting at his residence that he will probably meet Prime ministers Menzies of Australia and Holyoake of New Zealand in London before the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference which he said he will still scheduled to convene Sept. 10.

Mr. Diefenbaker, convalescing from an ankle injury, received reporters in his bedroom where the cabinet had met for 3½ hours.

The prime minister told them that he had received no official report of this week's conference of premiers in Victoria but that their recommendations would "receive the most careful consideration because their views are always most helpful."

Mrs. Duncan entered the chamber with faltering steps.

She said nothing as three guards strapped her into the metal chair.

She stared straight ahead, with eyes level, at the door through which she entered.

I AM INNOCENT

The governor's office reported her last words to the warden were:

"I am innocent. I want to see my son."

A last-minute petition for a stay of execution was denied Mrs. Duncan only five minutes before she entered the gas chamber.

Stays were also denied the men she hired to kill her Canadian-born daughter-in-law — Augustine Baldonado, 28, and Louis Moya, 23.

The two men were executed three hours later.

The daughter-in-law, Olga, was a native of Dauphin, Man.

Baldonado and Moya, were reported in cheerful spirits by W. D. Achuff, associate warden.

For their last meal they ordered a huge dinner of lobster thermidor, steak, fried oysters, and bicarbonate pills to follow.

$2 Million MacMillan Gift Aids Education, Welfare

VANCOUVER (CP) — H. R. MacMillan, British Columbia timber magnate, has established a $2,000,000 trust fund for education and welfare.

The Canada Trust Company, trustee of the H. R. MacMillan family fund said Mr. MacMillan has deposited securities valued at $2,000,000 with it.

The general objectives of the fund are:

To help B.C. educational institutions at the university level and worthy and needy students through loans, scholarships, bursaries, prizes and other methods.

To help the University of B.C. faculty of forestry and institute of fisheries.

CHURCH ALSO BENEFITS

At the same time the United Church of Canada is a beneficiary with money going to help its work in the province generally and to its pension fund, Union Theological College at UBC and maintenance of churches particularly.

Mr. MacMillan, 77, is retired although he is still honorary chairman of the board of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., one of the giant wood products complexes in North America.

The trust fund is given the right to distribute capital and income and is required to spend it all within 50 years but not before 30 years.

In a statement Mr. MacMillan said:

"The intention is that some of the worthy purposes to which Mrs. MacMillan and I have given support over the years will continue to be helped during the lifetime of my immediate family."

'Reluctant' Witnesses Scuttled 'Douk' Case

Forty-eight Crown witnesses either changed their stories or refused to testify in British Columbia's vain bid to try 70 Freedomite Doukhobors on conspiracy charges. Attorney-General Robert Bonner disclosed Tuesday.

Mr. Bonner said his lawyers are currently studying the decision of magistrate Williams Evans, in New Westminster, dismissing the charges after a preliminary hearing.

"I will await their further word before indicating any course of action," he added.

(Normally there is no appeal after dismissal of charges. However some bid for a new hearing or new charges might be possible.)

Mr. Bonner said the "turn-coat" witnesses were mostly Doukhobors themselves.

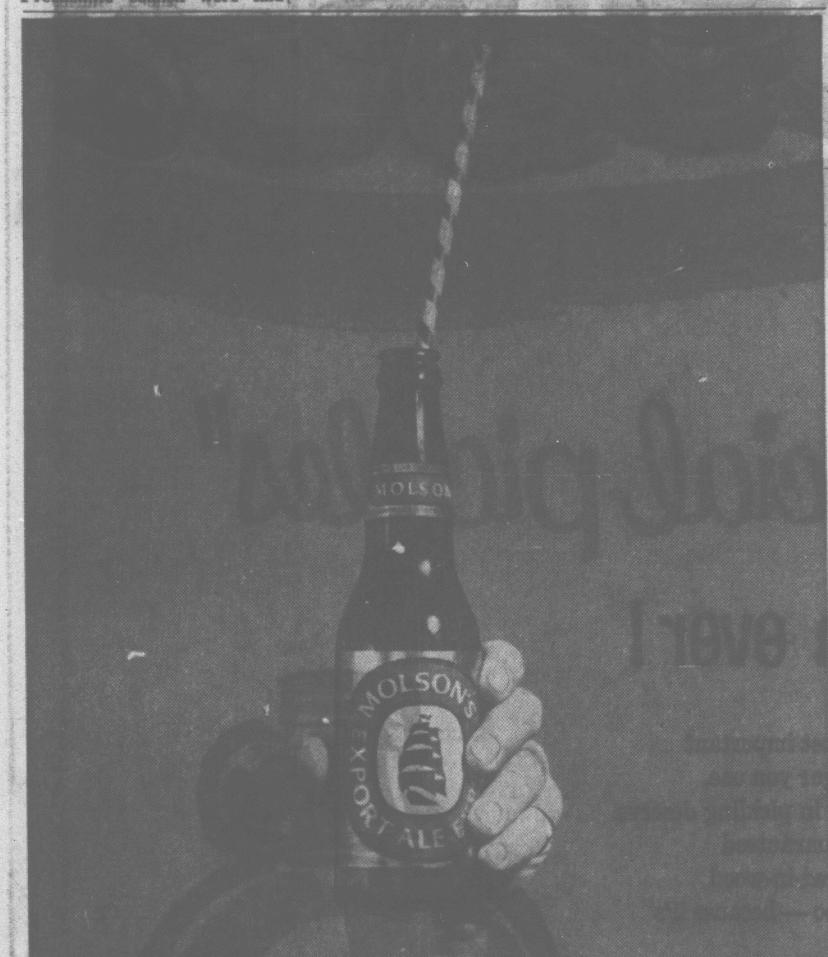

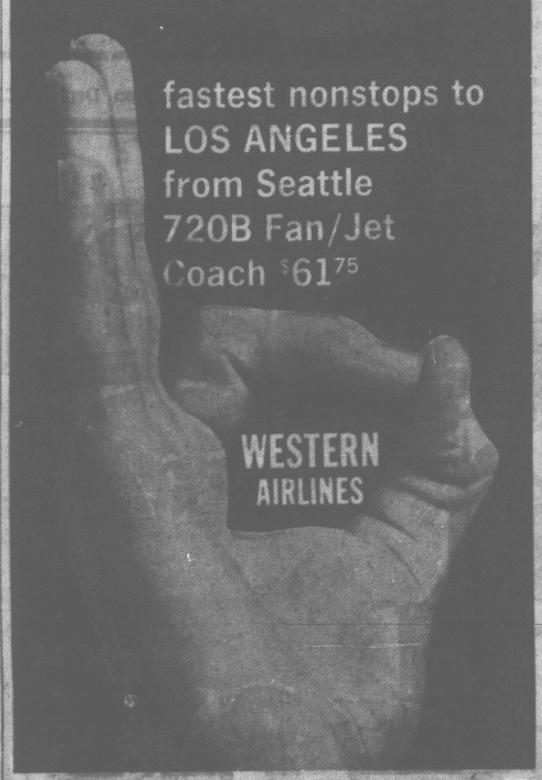

DIFFICULT PROSECUTION
"The public should know the Crown counsel involved were confronted with a very difficult and technical prosecution, complicated by the fact that not less than 48 witnesses upon whom the Crown had relied in bringing charges either changed their stories or refused to testify once the matter got into court," he said.

He said that George Murray, QC, who acted for the Crown, was one of the most experienced lawyers in conspiracy charges in the province.

Gold Price Rise Seen Inevitable

By GORDON BELL

Times Business Editor

Despite President Kennedy's vigorous denial that the U.S. might devalue its dollar—or perhaps because of it—

speculation continues ripe that a rise in the price of gold is not only inevitable but cannot be long delayed.

Writing in the Financial Times of London recently, Bell

British economist Sir Roy Harrod argued succinctly to the effect that while many financial commentators, particularly in the U.S., have grasped the fact of inevitability of devaluation, they have failed to see that devaluation would be of itself a good thing for the U.S.

Sir Roy points out that between the first quarter of 1959 and that of 1962, the U.S. national income rose by 16.1 per cent, while the quantity of money (demand deposits) rose by 2.8 per cent.

This niggardliness in the supply of money, he says, which accounts for a good deal of the trouble in the stock market, has been necessary because of the rapidly growing U.S. external deficit.

Federal Reserve authorities have reasoned, quite correctly, that a more liberal monetary policy by reducing interest rates would increase the outflow of capital—short-term or portfolio—in quest of higher rates elsewhere.

Second quarter net income in 1962 rose sharply to $12,522,000, or 42 cents a share, from $7,715,000, or 25 cents a share in the second quarter of 1961.

Sales in the first half rose

9 per cent to 357,000 tons from 328,000 tons in the first half of 1961. Total operating revenue in the first half was $283,506,000, compared with $252,640,000 in the first half of 1961.

Aluminum Net Income Up Sharply

MONTRÉAL (CP)—Aluminum Ltd. reported Tuesday net income of $20,931,000, or 68 cents a share, for the six months ended June 30, compared with $11,112,000, or 59 cents a share, in the corresponding period of 1961.

Second quarter net income in 1962 rose sharply to $12,522,000, or 42 cents a share, from $7,715,000, or 25 cents a share in the second quarter of 1961.

$283,506,000, compared with $252,640,000 in the first half of 1961.

Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd., principal subsidiary of Aluminum Ltd., showed net income in the first half of $15,300,000, compared with $11,100,000 in the first half of 1961, and sales and operating revenues of $160,200,000, compared with $165,400,000 in the first half of 1961. VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, AUG. 8, 1962—PAGE 15

MONTE ROBERTS

People keep asking me, what in the name of George I. Warren has happened to the summer weather in this, the Fairest City of Them All?

And I keep saying to people, shhhh, the Vancouver tourist bureau may hear you and stop urging all those nice tourists to come here instead of staying in Vancouver, cluttering up the streets with their vulgar $20 bills.

But people persist in asking me, what's with the weather? Who, what, when and why here?

This is a good question, but before I can answer it, you must have an understanding of weather itself.

Weather can be described as fair, foul, infied out—excuse it, wrong thesis—cold, hot, tempestuous, lovely, lousy, or "what's the difference, I wasn't going out anyway."

Putting it succinctly, weather is nothing but a state of mind. The kind of weather greeted with dancing on the campus by the sun-bathers sends the gladiolus-grower rushing around for sunbrellas. The kind of weather which keeps the potential golfer glowering in the locker room keeps the potential lawn-cutter glowing in comfort on the chesterfield.

Everything, as Einstein said, is relative, including the humidity.

Now that weather itself has been explained in simple terms which any schoolboy can understand (it is MY fault you are not any schoolboy?) let us turn to an explanation of what in the name of George I. Warren has happened to the summer weather in this, the Fairest City of Them All.

As usual, a storm brewing in the Gulf of Alaska is mainly responsible, of which more later.

But the basic reason for the illiquidity of our current crop of sunshine is the relative humidity, or, in simple terms, the amount of water vapor present in the air.

In meteorological circles, this is measured by a psychrometer. I am unable to give you the latest psychrometer reading, as the instrument has been severely strained, and is now undergoing psychrometrical analysis.

Another instrument used to measure humidity in the air is the hair hygrometer. This is a modern adaptation of the stone age method, when men went out without their hats, and if their hair got wet, they knew it was raining.

I, personally, went out without my hat last night, and I can assure you, it WAS raining.

But as to the original question, what's with the summer weather? I can assure you it isn't the nuclear test fall-out.

It's just that Alaska is flexing its muscles as a State of the Union, brewing a storm in its Very Own Gulf, and never forgetting for a moment that stirring battle-cry:

FIFTY-FOUR FORTY OR PHOOEY.

DEADLINE EXTENDED ON CARPARK

Deadline for tenders on the largest of two city of Victoria parking facilities has been extended five days because of interest expressed by local, mainland and Alberta contractors.

Bids were due by Thursday but will be acceptable up to 1 p.m. next Tuesday, city engineer James Garnett said today.

Since weather closed in last week, more than three inches of rain has fallen in Strathcona Park, which covers much of the plateau.

Witnesses to the accident testified that the Lascelle car rounded the corner on Dallas Road at Clover Point at "excessive speed," and over the centre line.

Louis Beerwaggon, a fellow passenger with Mrs. Burford in the car driven by her niece, Mrs. Helen Hanel, said the other car was "obviously out of control" and "skittered sideways into us."

Mrs. Hanel said she could smell alcohol when Mr. Lascelle came over to her car after the crash, but she could not say whose breath she was smelling "as there were so many people about."

The entire staff—less management—of CKEK-TV studios has been signed up by an international union in what a representative calls part of a "breakthrough" in Western Canada.

About 30 people are covered by an application to the Canada Labor Relations Board, made last week by the 150-member Vancouver Local 73 of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians.

Mr. Reid said the print had been held up and would not be ready until then.

Q. How many textile mills are there in Canada? How many of them are Canadian-owned?—L.D.

A. There are more than 700 primary textile mills in Canada, spread across the 10 provinces, and the industry is 80% Canadian-owned; it is the country's second largest source of employment in manufacturing, behind the clothing industry.

Q. How many passengers were carried on Canadian air-lines in 1961?—B.D.V.

Startled, he wheeled into the nearest driveway and blurted out to the householder that there was a monkey around.

Then he took off.

"He was somebody's pet—real friendly," said Mr. Antonson.

The monkey stayed there a few hours, then decided it was time to press on.

He pulled up the window and left—for parts unknown.

Cadboro's Mystic Springs In Commercial Use Again

Renowned Mystic Springs of Cadboro Bay have come into their first commercial use in 50 years.

At the turn of the century spring water was piped from the heights overlooking the bay to the Giant Powder Co.'s explosive factory on Telegraph Bay.

When the plant was closed down and the operation moved by the new owners—Canadian Industries Ltd.—to James Island, the springs remained only a curiosity, used by residents to fill fishponds and water their gardens.

But the water flows today below the surface of the sandy, gravelly soil as it has for untold years, heading for tidewater at Gyro Park.

Cadboro Village has taken advantage of the flow a few feet beneath its foundations.

PERFORATED PIPE

A network of perforated pipes was laid under the site and leading to three cisterns which will be covered by steel lids in the parking area.

They are linked by other pipes and an electric pump which takes the water at a constant 40 degrees to a bank of refrigeration units below the Shop Easy store.

The cold water cools refrigeration coils and when the system is completed the resulting warm water will be used for heating and in a permanent sprinkling system.

FLOW CONSTANT

Engineering tests show a constant flow of 1,200 gallons an hour at one cistern, water which would otherwise run wasted through storm drains.

To ensure stability for the foundations, the building sits on footings five feet wide with reinforcing steel set four inches apart.

MODERN STORES LINKED TO PAST

Character of Old 'Village' Retained by Shopping Centre

Cadboro Village is a shopping centre with some odd facets of character.

Apart from its stylized chalet-type roof and rustic natural stone facings it is probably the only group of stores having:

- A cedar shake roof from service station to professional offices.

- Foundations without piles, built on a bog over subterranean springs.

- Everlasting warm water for auxiliary heating and irrigation for planted areas.

- A direct link with Cadboro Bay's first community store and post office dating back at least 54 years.

LOCALLY DESIGNED

The attractive design is the most striking feature, and this, too, is a local effort.

Cadboro Bay Holdings Ltd. is the developing firm, in which the principal shareholders are Lou Holker—unofficial "mayor" of the village—Mrs. Garnons Williams and John Damgard.

Spokesman Holker, an avid community booster who has lived 45 years on the bay, said:

"I didn't want a place that looked like a box. We designed it ourselves."

BLEND WELL

Far from looking like a box, the distinctive gabled effect blends well with the informal residential district and adjoining avenue of tall, leafy trees.

The builders took advice from consulting engineer Eric Hoel.

First Refugees

From Hong Kong Arrive In Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first group of 15 of the 100 Chinese refugees from Hong Kong who will eventually come to Canada arrived in Vancouver Tuesday aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines trans-Pacific jet plane.

The group, consisting of five families including several children, will make their new home in Toronto.

On arrival here they were greeted by representatives of various Chinese civic organizations headed by Chinese consul Pon Ling Chee.

The group left almost immediately on a CPA trans-Canada flight.

only on structural engineering aspects of the concrete block, reinforced concrete and trussed roof building.

There are, besides the three professional offices and Standard service station, a Shop-Easy store, a laundromat, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, drug store and two shops as yet having no tenant.

There were four houses and the landmark Cadboro Bay Grocery on the premises when the holding company began development two years ago.

Three of the houses were moved to other sites, one was demolished and the old brick store taken down. Its post office has since relocated in a shop across Cadboro Bay Road.

sacks from Victoria in the village's first brass-band Model T.

The centre is accessible from three streets, Cadboro Bay Road, Sinclair and Penrhyn, covering about one third of a block virtually next door to seaside Gyro Park.

Its 50-car parking area in front is screened by a cut rock planted area which is extended along the south side below second storey offices.

Three steel standards support high luminaire-type flood-lights for after-dark shoppers.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The price of silver rose to another 42-year high in New York today amid signs of a new flare-up in the century-old controversy over the metal.

The latest quotation here for silver is $1.06 an ounce, a rise of one cent in the past three days. Late last year the price stood at 91½ cents. These price increases have been paralleled on the London market.

Film Star Beautiful In Death

(See also Page 3)

By VERNON SCOTT
WEST LOS ANGELES
(UPI)—Marilyn Monroe, as beautiful in death as she was in life, found the peace she sought in a hushed chapel today as 23 friends bid her final farewell.

Outside the chapel of the Westwood Village memorial cemetery several hundred orderly spectators joined 80 police officers and 100 newsmen in smoggy, mid-80s heat as the Rev. A. J. Soldan, a Lutheran minister, read a non-denominational service which included the 23rd psalm.

The bronze casket holding the world's most famous blonde was open, revealing the movie star who died last Sunday morning of an overdose of drugs, shocking the world and plunging Hollywood into deep mourning.

"I have never seen Marilyn look more beautiful—like a small child," said Don Prince, a 20th Century-Fox Studios employee who helped make final arrangements.

The Rev. Soldan's service was based on the quotation, "How fearfully and wonderfully she was made by the creator."

Lee Strasberg, the star's longtime friend and drama coach, read the eulogy to the tiny gathering in the chapel which holds 150 persons. Joe DiMaggio, Miss Monroe's second husband, limited the number of mourners invited to the services to avoid a spectacle.

In reading the eulogy Strasberg said, in part: "In her own lifetime she created a myth of what a poor girl from a deprived background could attain. For the entire world she became a symbol of the eternal feminine."

"But I have no words to describe the myth and the legend. I did not know this Marilyn Monroe."

'Stop Handouts' Premiers Urge

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter
Canadian premiers want to stop handouts to people who can work but haven't got a job.

They want a new federal-provincial formula for welfare payments.

They want to put their unemployed to work "at going rates" of pay on useful projects such as roads, parks and public buildings.

This emerged as the major topic of discussion at the final session here Tuesday of the third annual provincial premiers' conference.

The eight premiers and two cabinet ministers representing Canada's 10 provinces were most outspoken on this issue at a press conference following their afternoon windup meeting.

The problem, said Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin:

"It is undesirable to hand out money to employable unemployed. It is much better that a reasonable occupation be found for them."

ALL AGREE

The reaction, summed up by Quebec Premier Jean Lesage:

"Every premier was thinking the same thing."

The solution, if there is one, lies in the report of the conference to be made by A. S. Abel, director of federal-provincial relations in the Ottawa finance department, acting as observer at the Victoria session.

The federal representative told me his government is troubled by the same problem," said conference chairman Lesage.

"He will mention it to the federal government."

The bar to the work-for-welfare plan, said Premier Bennett of B.C., is that Ottawa won't allow its welfare aid to be used in this manner at present.

The 50-50 sharing of welfare costs is strictly on a handout basis.

"What we want," said Mr. Bennett, who has raised this subject before in the provincial legislature, "is some formula where the employable part of the group can work out social assistance at the going rates of pay."

RETAIN DIGNITY

"These people can get assistance and hold their dignity, too."

New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud said the welfare recipients could work on roads and parks for government.

"We would make the same payment as now—but people would have to work for it," said Mr. Lesage.

The conference broke up on a note as amicable as its start.

"We have been practical about all these items," said Mr. Lesage pointing to the 17-point agenda discussed over the past two days.

"There were no regional or political differences on any of the problems," said Mr. Bennett. "There were no partisan points of view expressed at the meeting—and we represented four different parties."

Mr. Lesage said the conference

General Defies War Secretary Of Argentine

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A general challenged authorities of the military command today, jolting an Argentina still struggling to recover from unsettling effects of the coup that ousted President Arturo Frondizi four months ago.

Maj.-Gen. Federico Toranzo Montero established himself in Jujuy, a garrison town in northern Argentina near the Bolivian border, and proclaimed himself army commander-in-chief in defiance of War Secretary Gen. Juan Bautista Loza, who has been doubling as the army's chief.

Toranzo has been commander of Argentina's 4th Army.

Loza retorted by ordering him out of his 4th Army command and proclaiming him in open rebellion.

The secretary told the nation, alarmed by this new military feud, that Toranzo's surprise manoeuvre was only an isolated incident and "measures have been swiftly adopted to re-establish normality."

The rebellious general is the brother of Gen. Carlo Toranzo Montero, who rebelled against the former regime of President Arturo Frondizi in June, 1960.

The affair at this stage appeared to be a dispute within army ranks and not a move against President Jose Maria Guido's government. But it could provoke a new administrative crisis. Reports of army unrest have been circulating in Buenos Aires for several days.

Mr. Lesage said the conference

PRINCESS TOO ALOOF, PAPERS SAY

LONDON (CP)—Correspondents of two London newspapers say the people of Jamaica are complaining that Princess Margaret has been too preoccupied with official duties during the island's independence celebrations.

The correspondents of The Daily Sketch and The Daily Herald say the vice-president of the United States, Lyndon Johnson has been "kissing babies in the streets and meeting people in factories" while the princess meets dignitaries.

The Sketch correspondent says Johnson's visit "is regarded as a forerunner to a big loan of U.S. dollars."

The Herald correspondent says Johnson arrived carrying vast quantities of U.S. flags and thousands were given away.

Today's cabinet meeting, held at the prime minister's residence where Mr. Diefenbaker is recuperating from a fractured ankle bone, was attended by all but five of the 18-member cabinet.

Fulton Rumored For Finance Job

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today conferred privately with Justice Minister Davie Fulton prior to the last meeting of the present cabinet.

Changes in the cabinet—including the filling of portfolios left vacant by the defeat of five ministers in the June 18 federal election—are to be announced at noon Thursday by the prime minister.

His meeting with Mr. Fulton immediately led to renewed speculation about the cabinet future of the justice minister.

It has been rumored here that Mr. Fulton is likely to get a new post, possibly switching jobs with Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Today's cabinet meeting, held at the prime minister's residence where Mr. Diefenbaker is recuperating from a fractured ankle bone, was attended by all but five of the 18-member cabinet.

Mr. Fulton met alone with the prime minister for 20 minutes before other members began to arrive for the meeting.

The five empty cabinet posts are: Postmaster general, solicitor general; public works, mines and technical surveys, and state secretary.

Index Reaches All-Time Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada rose in June to a record high level due almost entirely to a sharp rise in food prices, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today.

The consumer price index, registering its second consecutive monthly increase, advanced half a point to 131 on July 1 from 130.5 a month earlier.

The index increase in May of two-fifths of a point and the rise in June followed the May 3 dollar devaluation. However, the bureau did not spell out how much of an impact was caused by devaluation of the dollar's exchange rate to 92½ U.S. cents—step which increased prices of imports.

The June index level compares with a figure of 129 for the corresponding month last year. The index is based on 1949 prices equaling 100.

HOUSING HIGHER

Besides higher food prices, costs of housing, transportation, health and personal care and recreation and reading were up in June.

Prices of most basic foods rose in June, boosting the food index by 1.4 points to 127 at July 1 from 125.6 a month earlier.

The advance in living costs followed an increase in industrial wages in May. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at June 1—latest date available—was 188.0 compared with 186.7 a month earlier and 181.6 a year earlier.

The housing index in June advanced to 131.5 from 134.9 a month earlier.

In shelter, the rent and homeownership indexes were up. In household operation, increases occurred in the cost of fuel and lighting, floor coverings, textiles, utensils and equipment and household supplies. Appliance prices were somewhat lower.

The clothing index declined to 112.9 from 113.1 as a result of sale prices for men's, women's and children's wear and piece goods.

Wholesale price trends were open in June.

The index of 30 industrial materials rose to 252.6 from 251.9 in the three-week period from June 29 to July 20.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the question will be eligible for a grand prize.

The questioner who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second questioner a Hammond atlas or globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Gary McLaughlin, age 11, Sioux City, Iowa, for his question:

What happens to the carbon dioxide gas we exhale?

Carbon dioxide is a very busy chemical, constantly being made, broken apart and remade. If this chemical cycle stopped, life as we know it would come to an end. For the carbon dioxide in the air plays a vital role of give-and-take between plant and animal life. Yet the proportion of this busy gas in the air is very small.

We breathe in oxygen and, as everyone knows, we breathe out carbon dioxide. From this bold statement, you might think that the air we exhale is stripped of its oxygen and teeming with carbon dioxide. But this is not so. Ordinary air is 21 per cent oxygen and 79 per cent carbon dioxide.

Plants produce some carbon dioxide during respiration, but not enough for their needs, if photosynthesis. They need the waste carbon dioxide exhaled by us and the animal world. The process of photosynthesis is still not fully understood, but we know that energy from sunlight is used to reassemble the atoms in molecules of water from the soil and carbon dioxide from the air into molecules of sugar. In this complex remaking of chemicals, some oxygen atoms, are left over and they are returned to the air. The plant world needs our waste carbon dioxide to keep going. In return, it supplies us with fresh oxygen which we use to keep producing more carbon dioxide to supply the plant world.

A molecule of carbon dioxide is an unit of one atom of carbon and two atoms of oxygen. Our respiration process uses this trick to get rid of the body's waste chemicals. Oxygen combines with carbon and we exhale waste carbon dioxide gas which in turn is used by the plant world. This give-and-take makes the plant and animal kingdoms dependent upon each other.

70-Year-Old Woman Pilot Flies Atlantic

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Mrs. Marion Hart, a 70-year-old New York grandmother, emerged from a long sleep at Shannon Airport today and said flying the Atlantic is fun.

She needed the sleep after flying a tiny Bonanza aircraft across the Atlantic in 11 hours. Her navigator was a former nurse and wartime navigation instructor, Louise Sacchi, 49, of Jenkinstown, Pa.

Mrs. Hart said:

"As far as we were concerned it was a nice uneventful trip, but the air traffic authorities at Gander got excited for a time when they thought we were lost."

"We were just out of radio contact. They called Shannon, who had asked a jet which was in the area to contact us and everything was all right again."
